HELEN HELP US!
— by Helen Bottel —

Description For Pierced Ears Hits The Spots

Dear Helen: Those 11-year-olds who have their ears pierced are pretty foolish, I was looking at pierced ears the other day — without ear rings on — and you know what they looked like? Misplaced navel, you should excuse the expression. Once you have your ears pierced, you're stuck with earrings all your life, even if they go out of style. Because you sure look undressed without them! — Samrtier

Dear smarter: Smart observation!

I think kids are getting the point: pierced ears seem to be going the way of "granny dresses" — out. — H.

Dear Helen: We had a discussion in class the other day. It was about why teens rebel. Do you think kids are "Limit-testers?" — Cathy Dear Cathy: Anybody worth his salt is a "limit tester." How else would he climb? Young people sometimes test parental limits for another reason: to see if they will stay firm. They want rules so that they can try to break them, but they are usually very relieved when they find it isn't possible. Right? — H.

Dear Helen: I am 15 years old and I love both my parents very much. Just about a month ago I found out my mother loves another man — or at least I think so. I'm afraid they will get a divorce if my father finds out. I can't tell anyone, and my mother doesn't know I know. Can you think of something that will help? — T.

Dear T: Sometimes a child's concern can bring a parent back to her senses. If you're mature enough to sense this triangle, you're perhaps capable of discussing it, woman to woman. This is a rough decision for a 15-year-old, but not nearly so rough as sitting on a powder keg, waiting for it to blow. — H.

Mother Knows Best, But...

Dear Helen: I'm 19, a college freshman. My parents trust me and I deserve their trust. I do not smoke, drink or get involved with sex play. My boy friend who is 24, has asked if he could drive down at the end of the school year and bring my roommate and me back to Mississippi. We will be spending one night in a hotel — in separate

Dear Helen: This is an answer to well-meaning, but misinformed people who support the Vietnam policy. I too am a peace-marcher, and I have been taunted and called unprintable names by people who do not realize we have no business over there; they want to continue the slaughter of thousands of innocent beings.

There is only one answer: immediate withdrawal and let the Vietnamese people decide for themselves what government they want.

Most peace marchers are not screwballs — we are the thinkers, the questioners. Our aims, ideals — and grades — are high. — Student.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble let Helen help YOU.

North's jump to three hearts was one of those limit raises that are becoming more and more popular. He wanted to be in game if his partner held more than a minimum opening.

South had enough more to justify a slam contract and he went there after checking for aces. In fact, South made a mild effort to get to seven but gave up when North showed no kings in response to the Blackwood five no-trump.

West opened the king of diamonds. South won with dummy's ace and drew trumps with two leads. Then he ran off four club tricks. At this point all he had to do to throw away game and rubber would be to discard his jack of diamonds on the fourth club. After this play he would have had no way to avoid the loss of two spade tricks provided that East and West played their cards properly.

On the other hand, South had a winning play at his disposal. He discarded his deuce

West had to win with the queen and was end-played. He had to lead a diamond to give South a ruff and discard or a spade into the ace-queen.

It should be noted that South's diamond play would have failed had East held the queen of diamonds but in that case, no play would have worked and also it would have been quite a play for West to have opened the king of diamonds without the queen to back it up.

Mincher and Killebrew provided the thunder and lightning with long home runs Wednesday night as the Minnesota Twins rocked Chicago 7-1.

Lock, playing center field, raced to the 408-foot sign in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, leaped and sneared pinch hitter Duke Sims' bid for a home run, preserving Washington's 4-3 victory over the Indians.

Mincher was on the Twins' bench until the fifth inning when he replaced Rich Rollins, who left the game because of an upset stomach. But he made the most of his abbreviated stint, pushing across four runs in two appearances.

In the fifth, Mincher came up with the bases loaded and drew a run-producing walk. Two innings later, he poled a 375-foot homer with Cesar Tovar and Killebrew on base.

Killebrew, off to his slowest home run pace in six seasons, hit his second of the season and 299th of his career in the first inning, giving Jim (Mudcat) Grant a quick lead.

Washington's Pete Richert took a four-hit shutout into the ninth, but then was tagged by Rocky Colavito's pinch three-run homer. That brought Casey Cox on in relief and Sims up to swing for Joe Azcue.

Sims smashed Cox' pitch to deepest center but Lock, off with the swing, leaped and caught the ball, robbing Sims of a homer and ending the game.

In other action Wednesday night, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from California 7-1 and 7-4, New York ripped Detroit 7-2 and Boston nipped Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings.

In the National League, Cincinnati tripped New York 4-2, Houston swept a doubleheader from Chicago 5-1 and 4-2, Philadelphia nipped St. Louis 4-3, Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 4-2 and San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 6-4.

Mike Hershberger drove in three runs and scored two as Kansas City completed its sweep of the Angels. Jim (Catfish) Hunter pitched a four-hitter, striking out 10, and Ed Charles and Dick Green had three hits apiece in the first game.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a five-hitter and Roy White and Tom Tresh homered as the Yankees ripped the Tigers. It was New York's seventh victory in 10 games since Ralph Houk took over as manager.

Redlegs Are Beginning to Show Signs

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are beginning to rise to the surface but the big question in the National League is whether the Houston Astros are in over their heads.

Expected to be among the pennant contenders, the slow-starting Reds continued their climb from the tail-end section of the standings Wednesday night, moving to within one victory of the 500 level by beating the New York Mets 4-2. The Reds now have won 10 of their last 19 games.

At the same time, the Astros, expected to be down where the Reds were, reeled off their 14th and 15th victories in the last 19 games by sweeping a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 5-1 and 4-2. Houston has inched to within 2 1/2 games of front-running San Francisco.

The big question is whether the Astros are serious contenders or early season pretenders. So far, however, their bid has to be considered. As a whole, the team is hitting a respectable .249 and the pitching staff has a combined earned run average of 2.78.

And, the Astros have been getting smoo solid individual performances. Second baseman Joe Morgan is hitting at a .342 clip, outfielder Jim Wynn is among the runs-batted-in leaders with 23 and shortstop Sonny Jackson is the runner-up in stolen bases with 12 to 14 for Maury Wills of Los Angeles.

The Giants, meanwhile, remained at the head of the standings with a .697 percentage to Houston's .625, by downing the third-place Dodgers 6-4, Philadelphia climbed into fourth by edging St. Louis 4-3 and Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 4-2.

In the American League, Boston nipped Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings, Washington edged Cleveland 4-3, Minnesota belted the Chicago White Sox 7-1, the New York Yankees clipped Detroit 7-2 and Kansas City swept California 7-1 and 7-4.

Wynn smacked a two-run double and Lee Maye and Rusty Staub hit homers in support of Dave Gustin's seven-hit pitching in the Astros' opening game victory. Catcher John Bateman homered for Houston in the nightcap but the key plays were two errors by the Cubs' Ernie Banks that led to three unearned runs.

Robin Roberts needed relief help from Claude Raymond in the second game but got the league career.

Sammy Ellis checked the walks off four New York pitchers. Cincinnati put it out for victory, No. 284 of his major reach with a three-run fifth built on three walks, a hit batter, Deron Johnson's double and an infield hit by Tommy Helms.

Trailing 3-2, the Giants came up with four runs in the eighth inning with the help of errors by second baseman Jim Lefebvre and outfielder Ron Fairly. Hal Lanier singled in te tying run and when Lefebvre fumbled the relay from the outfield on the hit, Tito Fuentes came around all the way from first and scored the lead run.

Hank Aaron and Woody Woodward produced the Braves' runs, Aaron connecting for his 12th homer, a two-run shot, and Woodward stroking a pair of run-producing doubles. Ken Johnson got the victory, scattering nine hits. Vern Law, just off the disabled list, took the loss — his first in his last 11 decisions.

The 2,000th hit of Dick Groat's major league career helped the Phillies to the winning run against the Cardinals. Tony Taylor led off the seventh inning with a single, moved to third on Groat's single and scored when Jerry Buchek bobbled Bill Gwend's doubleplay grounder.

Bob Gibson was the loser and now is 3-5.

Senator Is Not Anxious

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., asked Tuesday about Gov. Orval Faubus possibly running against him in 1968, said, "I don't like showdown campaigns either in Arkansas or Viet Nam."

The senator also declined to predict who would win the governor's race in Arkansas this year.

But he predicted that Winthrop Rockefeller, who seeks the Republican Party gubernatorial nomination, wouldn't become governor.

Johnson Last Man to Beat Clay, Cooper

By A LGOLDBERG

MEDIN, Ohio (AP) — Amos Johnson was the last man to beat Cassius Clay.

He also was the last man to whip Henry Cooper.

But while Clay is to defend his world heavyweight title against Cooper in London Saturday, Johnson is seeking a fight — any professional fight.

Johnson rattles off reasons he feels he should have been given a shot at Clay before Cooper. They range from his 1959 amateur victory over Clay, to his pasting of Cooper in London last year, to a promise he claims Clay made "to fight me the minute I get in the top ten."

The 27-year-old Johnson currently is seventh in the World Boxing Association heavyweight rankings and is ranked fifth by Ring Magazine. But no fight.

The Medina boxer, who has won 21 of 23 professional bouts, stopped Clay's 86-fight winning streak by beating him in the 1959 Pan-American Games trials.

Johnson won the trials and the Games title but turned professional before the 1960 Olympic trials. Clay won the Olympic light heavyweight championship that year in Rome. Johnson toured small boxing clubs, winning five straight, four by knockouts.

After getting only $42 for a 10-rounder, Johnson decided to go back into the service. Clay, meanwhile, headed for the heavyweight title.

Since he got out of uniform in 1963, big money and prestige fights have eluded Johnson. Discouraged, he went abroad last year. He earned a draw with European champion Karl Mildenberger in Germany, then took the unanimous 10-round decision from Cooper on Nov. 19, dropping him twice.

He thought that would get him a big fight, but he has fought only twice since — both second-round knockout victories over Indian Ray Staples of Philadelphia.

The Dog Just Headed Home

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman Maynard Merrill decided to try a new tactic when he answered a complaint in North Willoughby about a stray dog.

He was unable to find out where the dog belonged, so he drove his patrol car slowly toward the dog, barking loudly over the car's loudspeaker system.

It worked, said Merrill. The dog turned tail and headed for home.

Charges Price Fixing in Asphalt

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Price-fixing in the asphalt industry is costing Arkansas taxpayers millions of dollars a year, a Democratic candidate for governor charged Wednesday.

Winston Chandler, a Little Rock businessman, said his investigations indicated that at least three suppliers were involved, and the amount of overcharges would be at least $3 to $4 million.

The state Highway Department has been looking into the possibility of such price-fixing since last summer, but results of the study have not been made public.

Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart, the Highway Commission chairman, said, however, that preliminary results indicate that

Spring Gives Rain the Boot

RAINY DAY GIRL SURROUNDED BY CHOICE BOOTS

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Just because somebody wrote a nursery rhyme about it, April gets all the blame for the stormy weather. But this month does not have any monopoly on the rain anywhere in the country. The United States weather bureau has comparison figures to show that not even the rainy seasons in certain areas faithfully turn on and off like automatic faucets according to the calendar.

In other words, don't pack away your rainwear. Rain is here to stay, between the sunshine, that is.

Anyway, rainwear is too pretty, too gay these days to be put away.

Whenever you are gloomy, don't you put on a false smile to fool the world, even fool yourself into thinking the sun is shining?

That is the fashion philosophy of rainwear. Make it sunny. Make it blossom with flowers. Make it so whimsical that every one smiles. Then who cares if it is wet? Inclemency is a material state. Not a mood.

The rainy day story begins with the obvious. Umbrellas and raincoats are made of see-through vinyls and peekaboo portholes and bright hues and posies on both.

It moves to the less obvious, dresses and suits and evening-wear that defy the dampness without revealing their water-shedding qualities because the fibers themselves are covered by glass shields, silicone.

Boots get all the dirty work. Rubbers and galoshes were once the ultimate in utilitarian ugliness...so much so that people with style sensitivity preferred to chance pneumonia than heed warnings to wear them.

Now boots are so chic that getting the people to relinquish them in the dry weather is the problem.

Boots begin at the ankle and reach high to the thigh. Some are tucked and linen-like; others are narrow to the calf with zippered sides, and mad gleaming plastic; flowered, striped, or clear see-through type.

Oddly, those old-fashioned buckle galoshes are in vogue again too, but dressed up in white with smart black buckles.

All are too pretty to be mere mud gear.

Venturi Planned Ahead for Olympic Open

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Before last year's U.S. Open was half over Ken Venturi had promised himself he'd be playing in the 1966 golf championship even if it meant an operation on his hands.

Some people feared the popular Californian with the classic swing might not make it. Soon after Venturi won the 1964 championship with the second lowest winning score in history his hands began giving him trouble.

He had an operation on his back and legs to aid blood circulation, but in last year's Open in St. Louis he could hardly hold the club. Soon afterward he had wrist surgery at Mayo Clinic. Circulation in his hands improved.

Last January he won the Lucky International Open with a brilliant 11-under-par 273. He wore gloves between shots to keep his hands warm.

Araw winter and spring limited his activity.

In mid-April some people still had doubts. Venturi's 1966 entry application had not arrived at USGA headquarters in New York with those of the four other previous Open winners, each exempt from playing qualifying rounds of 72 holes.

But a few days later, Venturi and Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA, met by appointment at The Olympic Club in San Francisco where this year's Open will be played on the Lakeside course June 16-19. They were there to confer on a film explaining a few new golf rules.

He Beat the Mail
Venturi got an application blank, took out his golf pencil and signed his entry.

"You're not going to turn that in pencil?" a friend asked Venturi.

"We'll accept it," said Joe Dey.

"Here's my entry fee," said Venturi, peeling a $20 bill from other items in his pocket.

"Jackson," (our 7th president), noted Venturi. "I hope I get that one back."

On the application blank it says quite clearly:

"Do not send cash."

But Joe Dey would do this for anyone to save time. And in Venturi's case time is important because Ken hasn't been able to play all the golf he had hoped to play since 1964.

Dey calls him one of golf's

HOGAN'S HEARTBREAKER: It was at San Francisco's Olympic course in 1955 that Ben Hogan barely missed his fifth National Open golf title. In a playoff with unknown Jack Fleck, Hogan's foot slipped on the 18th tee. It took Ben three shots, his margin of defeat, to get out of the tall rough above. Hogan has entered the coming Open at Olympic.

VENTURI'S STRATEGY: Determined to regain the National Open title he won in 1964 with a score second only to Ben Hogan's record 276, Ken Venturi uses a washline while walking off yardage on a day too cold to practice. Bud Allio, a friend, holds the line. Venturi, wearing gloves, has looked forward to the June 16-19 Open a long time.

most courageous men, for Dey, as one of the two officials, walked with Venturi that unbearably hot afternoon in Washington when Ken won the Open with a fantastic 278.

Venturi never had any doubts about the coming Open. Olympic is near his Hillsborough home and he's been a dues paying member since his amateur days of 10 years ago.

In many ways, Venturi's comeback reminds many of Ben Hogan after his near fatal auto accident of 1949. Both have great swings, determination to practice for hours on end and the power to concentrate on every shot.

Hogan practiced for three months, hoping to win an unprecedented fifth Open in 1955. It was at Olympic, too. Ben lost all chance when his foot slipped on a sandy spot at the 18th tee in a playoff with Jack Fleck. His drive landed in the rough and it took three shots in tall grass to make the fairway. Venturi, too, has been practicing.

ing. On March 2 it was too cold for Ken to practice at Olympic so he took a friend to the course.

They got a piece of washline and walked several holes to measure the distances.

Ben Hogan some years ago took a stand never to play in another Open if he had to qualify. Recently the USGA invited him (15 executive committeemen voted) because of his four Open victories. Ben accepted.

It should be something if Hogan, 53, and Venturi, 35, are paired together the first two days. The USGA officials might be thinking about that angle. Many athletes have made comebacks but Hogan and Venturi seem to stand apart in a game in which muscle men are dominating over stylists who play for position rather than distance.

Crime Fighters Form 'Syndicate'

By PATRICK E. O'KEEFE
Associated Press Writer

NILES, Ill. (AP) — Criminals operating in some Chicago suburbs are becoming entangled in the consequences of one-for-all and all-for-one crime fighting.

Lt. Edward Dennis, in charge of investigations for the Niles Police Department, is the central figure of the system. It informally bands together more than 50 suburban police departments, various Chicago detective units, sheriff's offices of Cook and McHenry counties, Illinois State Police and some federal law enforcers.

Each month in the Niles courtroom, Lt. Dennis presides over delegates of member departments who come, some of them 30 miles or more and on their own time, to tell of recent crimes in their towns and to hear of happenings elsewhere. Dennis describes a typical exchange: "One guy will stand up and say, 'We picked up a petty thief last night but we found some fur coats in the trunk.' Then somebody else will ask, 'Does he drive a red Ford?'"

"Well, those furs are from a robbery in our town."

Lt. Dennis refers to the operation as a system rather than the more formal term organization.

It is two years old and has 214 members, but no name. It has resulted in the solving of about 300 crimes, Dennis said. Besides the monthly meetings, the system also has files, kept in Lt. Dennis' office.

What it all means is that crime-fighting borders have been taken down; each police department worries about crimes occurring outside its borders and cooperates in solving such cases.

The Niles chief, Clarence Emrikson, said Lt. Dennis started the project in 1964 with 10 or 12 policemen from nearby towns. Word-of-mouth kept bringing in more from surrounding areas.

Emrikson said, "It seemed like the surrounding area never stopped." Now these detectives from so many different departments work as if for one municipality. "I have never heard of another such system anywhere else," the chief added.

A big benefit of the system is that policemen from many areas get to know each other. Then, when an officer is trying to track a suspect in another town, he's on a first-name basis with detectives in charge there.

Orbison Lost Glasses, Bought Motorcycle

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

HOW does a singer adopt a "trademark"? Often, like Roy Orbison, and his sunglasses and his motorcycle, he adopts a trademark without knowing that's what he's doing.

In 1963, Roy flew to Alabama to appear and left his glasses on the plane. He had to go directly from there to England for a three-week tour, so he put on his prescription sunglasses. The tour was called "The Beatles-Roy Orbison Show," and so many pictures were taken — Roy always in sunglasses — that he decided to keep wearing them back in the United States.

Roy recalls that when he was recording for Sun Records, Elvis Presley sold his motorcycle to one of the young men at the Sun studio. "I rode it one evening and all the next day," Roy says, "and I decided I needed one."

"Riding a motorcycle gives you the feeling that fast cars, fast boats, water skiing and horseback riding don't quite give you. It's something like horseback riding, but I hate to run an animal like that. I'd rather have it be a machine you can repair."

"The other day I rode a racing machine. I enjoyed it, but it's probably not for me. It seems to take a special breed to do trick riding and racing. It's their one love, where mine would be music."

Roy is just back from a tour in England. This summer he'll make a U.S. tour and then act and sing in his first movie, "The Fastest Guitar in the West."

125 NATURAL WAXES

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — A wax museum here may not boast the many lifelike figures of world celebrities found at London's famed Madame Tussaud's, but it has a variety of a different sort.

More than 125 types of natural waxes — produced from such diverse sources as grape seeds, cranberries, tea leaves, several kinds of bees and even rare Chinese insects — are found in the Johnson Wax collection, assembled over several decades for research purposes.

"Then I couldn't put the guitar down. I did set it in the closet for football, but I always went back to it. It was a comfort to hold a guitar and play it. I formed a band to earn enough money to get through college."

Roy was in North Texas University, Wink, Tex., when Pat Boone was there. Pat sang on television in Dallas, but Roy dropped out of school in 1956 to see if he could make it as a songwriter.

Driving to Nashville to see if he could peddle "Only the Lonely," which he had written, Roy stopped at Elvis Presley's house in Memphis early one morning.

"I don't think I've ever told this story before," Roy says, recalling, "I sent a note in from the gate. But he had guests and everybody was still sleeping and he didn't want to disturb them. I drove on to Nashville and showed the song to the Everly Brothers, but they were too busy to take note of it. So I said I'd do it. It got to No. 1 here and in England and I've forgotten where all."

At first, Roy says, "I thought writing would be more of a comfort to me. You can choose your locale and just write and have roots and feel at peace with yourself."

"But I did record it and pretty soon I had five top-10 records in a row and had played only three shows. But all of a sudden I felt if I don't go out on the road, experiences are getting by me and it's an opportunity I might not have again. Also, the revenue from the road is at least twice as much as you can make off records themselves."

Now, Roy says, he really likes to tour. "There is something crazy about it. If you make a record or a movie, it is released and marketed without any of your help and the checks come in and show if you were a success or not. If you tour, people are right there to tell you."

Roy makes his home with his wife and three sons on a lake near Nashville. He says, "The oldest boy plays piano, drums and very little guitar. He wants to be a secret agent."

When he writes songs, Roy says, "I normally get a good idea and possibly one riff and a couple of lines — often on an airplane. It has to be good enough to stay with me or I won't fool with it. If I remember it, I finish it when I have all the time I need and can pick away at home on the guitar."

"I've only written one fast song," Roy says, "but one record company's a and a man had me doing nothing but rock things. I wanted to do just ballads. All rock artists want to sing ballads, but I had very little success with those rocking songs."

"When he sees me now, he says, 'Still trying to sing those ballads aren't you?'"

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

HOW TIMES have changed. Twenty-five years ago the Nazis in Germany were persecuting the Jews. Today a new stamp issued by West Germany honors the Jewish Community Center Building in West Berlin. The stamp is part of the "New Berlin" series of six stamps depicting local buildings. The Community Center stamp is 30 pfennig. Also issued in this set is 60 pfennig showing the new Europa Center. The next three in the series will feature the University of Technology, Radio Tower and Planetarium with the Wilhelm-Foerster Observatory.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced plans for the issuance of three additional U.S. commemorative postage stamps during this year.

The stamps will salute the 75th anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the 25th anniversary of the U.S. Savings Bond program, and the Great River Road (a highway system linking Canada with the Gulf of Mexico on either side of the Mississippi River).

All will be 5-cent stamps. Designs and dates will be reported in this column as soon as they are received. These three new stamps will bring to 15 the number of commemoratives for 1966.

Another report from the postmaster general's office reveals the design of the new international airmail post card. The 11-cent card will be issued May 27 with first-day ceremonies in Washington in conjunction with the Sixth International Philatelic Exhibition.

This will be the first international airmail post card ever issued by the U.S. It is also the first to be printed in duotone, a lithographic process by which inks are blended for rich tones.

The stamp itself is based on the symbol of the Commerce Department's U.S. Travel Service. To the left of an American flag is a white panel in which appears in blue a map of the country. Across the bottom in blue is "Visit the U.S.A."

Four photographs on the left of the card itself are indicative of the widely varying attractions awaiting the tourist from abroad — the New York skyline, the shoreline of Miami Beach, a view of Mt. Rainier and an Indian on horseback.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may submit orders to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20013, including name and address, with zip number and remittance to cover the cost of the card — 11 cents each. The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First-Day Covers 11-cent International Airmail Post Card." Orders must be postmarked no later than May 27.

Canada has issued a new 5-cent stamp honoring the 300th anniversary of LaSalle's arrival in the New World. The stamp bears a vignette profile of LaSalle superimposed on a ship and symbols of his career as an explorer and colonist.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh firemen are fire believers in the adage, where there's smoke, there's fire.

Historical Essences With Wit

BOSWORTH FIELD. By A.L. Rowse. Doubleday. $5.95.

It may be that the reading of history creates cynicism. But the reading of British historian Rowse's books is a pleasure nevertheless.

For Rowse has something that few American historians — Morison and Schlesinger are exceptions — possess, a witty way of summing up the essence of a situation in a bright, readable prose style.

As he remarks with a wink in this volume, "One thing one learns from history is that people never learn anything from history — though they might so easily."

Rowse's field of specialty is the Elizabethan age, but here he has turned his attention to its antecedents. The range of this book is from the Revolution of 1399 to history's turning point at Bosworth Field in 1485, when the gory struggle between the houses of Lancaster and York reached a culmination in the death of the unhorsed Richard III, and the house of Tudor arose to supremacy.

It is the story of the emergence from the Middle Ages. Right at the beginning Rowse succinctly defines the ancient days of Henry IV: "Magnificence and inefficiency, splendour and lice — there we have the Middle Ages."

Those of us who have forgotten what little we learned in our school texts will be jolted to read what a murderous, treacherous time this was for the two royal factions among the descendants of Edward III.

Rowse writes with vigor and comprehension, but even he — as a conscientious historian — lapses occasionally into complex, dry details that are bound to deter the reader on this side of the salt. But that is a small problem.

At the end of the book there is a sort of cultural bonus in two chapters that describe the literary echoes of the period and the use that Shakespeare made of the 15th Century's conflicts.

Once again Rowse has made history come alive, in a crisply told historical narrative.

Beauty Is in the Air

by Helen Hennessy
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

TEL AVIV—(NEA)—Aviva Glezer would be a natural for "What's My Line?" She's shapely, beautiful and a blonde. Her clothes look expensive and chic and she chooses them in Paris and Rome and from the best Israeli designers.

The panel's first guess concerning her occupation might be "model" or "actress." They would be wrong.

It might next be revealed that Aviva speaks seven languages, is at home in French and English literature and has a vast knowledge of the English poets. (In fact during a television program in London she was asked by Reginald Bosanquet, her interviewer, Shapely, blond Aviva Tatiana Glezer, chief flight simulator instructor for El Al Israel Airlines is the only woman in the world who teaches the fly boys how things are done.

who her favorite English poet was and caused a spate of letters from viewers when she said "Tessimond" of whom Bosanquet had never heard.) But no, she isn't a professor.

The lady is a captain who makes men fly. She is Captain Aviva Tatiana Glezer, chief flight simulator instructor for El Al Airlines and the only woman in the world who holds that kind of job.

Aviva is a troublemaker for all the pilots. In her ground floor offices at Lod Airport here she sits with a trainer pilot in the pilot's seat of a mock-up Boeing cockpit and immediately accidents, foul weather and other emergencies follow—all of her making. From her sack of nasties she pulls such things as loss of power on take-off or a balky undercarriage. And to simulate these delights she has to manipulate 550 dials.

When asked how men pilots react to a woman teacher, she replied, "In the normal way." This could mean anything. Yet it brought to my mind all the cracks I've heard for years about women drivers.

But Tania, as she is called by her friends, learned the knack for handling this delicate matter of male chauvinism before she came to El Al. For several years as a member of the Israeli Air Force she trained its fighter pilots.

To keep ahead of aviation progress she goes to London each year to see what's new at BOAC's training division in Crawbank. "On my first trip," she said, "they were surprised to learn that Captain Glezer was a girl. But they got used to me."

Tania claims she is an introvert. She loves concerts, theater and poetry and admits to being an unabashed romanticist. "But not, I hope," she said, "one who thinks the next hill is always greener."

A pilot herself, this slip of a blonde, who shows the fly boys how things are done, loves airplanes to the point where she says she hopes to fly for the rest of her life.

Here is one girl who will never complain that "there must be another way to earn a living."

Midget-size vegetables for limited space.

Midget Fruits, Big Treat

By Allan and Sheila Swenson
NEA Garden Specialists

Bush cantaloupes, midget watermelons, bite-size tomatoes and baby squash are some of the new easy-to-grow taste treats for your garden.

Now, even in limited space you can enjoy the freshness of just-picked vegetables. New varieties promise greater productivity than ever, thanks to dedicated plant breeders. They have constantly improved vegetables over the years for our benefit.

Melons are a special treat. Several new types require less space but bear top yields. All-American Gold Medal winner, the New Hampshire Midget watermelon is excellent for northern areas because the 7-inch, 6-pound melons begin ripening in 70 days.

A bush midget cantaloupe produces on small compact plants. The bush habit allows close spacing with good yields in small gardens.

Golden Midget corn, offered by the Burpee Seed Co., matures in 65 days. The tiny ears, about 4 to 5 inches long, are sweet and tender. Another space-saver. White Midget corn has delicately flavored kernels and freezes well.

Bite-size tomatoes like Tiny Tim and Lollipop yield well. Brilliant scarlet tomatoes are good for salads. These plants can be grown even in flower borders.

A new Baby Blue Hubbard squash produces fruits about six inches in diameter with rich orange-yellow flesh. Great for baking, boiling and "pumpkin" pie making.

In small space, you can add pole beans that will climb on the corn plants. Stake cucumbers in small areas. You'll get good eating and cleaner cukes as they grow up.

Remember to keep picking the squash and cucumbers to encourage greater productivity.

For salad lovers, keep lettuce coming by succession planting of Tom Thumb, Iceberg, heat-resistant Salad Bowl, an All-American Gold Medal winner and Burpee Bibb.

Even with small space, these newer vegetables can provide good eating all season long.

Most everyone enjoys noodles. And everyone seems to vote for shrimp, too. Combine the two as egg noodle ring filled with deviled shrimp and you have a meal-time winner. Try it and see. You'll be taking no dinner risks with your hungry family.

NEPTUNE NOODLE RING

1 tablespoon salt

¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1¼ cups milk
2 egg yolks
Dash Tabasco

water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Turn into oiled 8-inch ring mold (5½ cups capacity). Let stand 5 minutes. Unmold.

Meanwhile, melt butter. Stir in flour, salt and pepper to taste, cayenne, curry powder, nutmeg and mustard.

Slowly stir in milk. Cook over low heat, 5 minutes. Combine egg yolks, Tabasco, Worcestershire and sherry; stir to blend. Stir some of milk mixture into egg yolk mixture.

Tips for The Bride

by Helen Hennessy
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A wedding is a happy occasion, but the countless dos and don'ts of bridal fashions can cause confusion and wedding-day fidgets. Here are a few tips to smooth the way:

At a formal wedding all the attendants should carry flowers that reflect the wedding motif and in soft colors that complement their gowns. Everything should be understated so that the bride will stand out.

Although short dresses are quite proper, mothers will be more distinctive in floor-length gowns and long gloves. And the mothers' corsages should be without ribbons, usually each mother's favorite flowers.

The bride, on her ride to church, should smooth her gown under her and place a sheet on the car seat unless she is sure it is spotless.

She should have someone "start" her train when she goes down the aisle. And she should remove the stitching from the ring finger of her glove so that her wedding band can be slipped on without removing the glove.

For an informal spring-summer wedding the bride should wear a street-length dress in off-white or pastel, although a long gown is not improper if she prefers this. Her veil, if she wears one, should be short and her bouquet small.

Her attendants should wear street-length dresses, short gloves, little jewelry and small hats. It is smarter for their shoes to be darker or lighter than their dresses—not dyed to match.

No Single Vaccine for All Common Cold Viruses

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My son started taking cold shots last winter. The doctor says he should go on with them all summer or he will lose his immunity. What do you think?

A—There are vaccines against various influenza viruses but two shots in the early fall each year are all that are required. These shots protect only against the prevailing type of influenza.

There are so many viruses responsible for the common cold that it would be impossible to give a single vaccine that would prevent all of them. The only one for which a vaccine has so far been developed is the adenovirus and the vaccine for that is given by mouth.

Q—Should a man and woman marry and have children if they are of the same ABO blood group and have the same Rh factor? I have heard that all children from such a marriage would be blue babies.

A—When a woman who has Rh-negative blood (only about 15 per cent of the population have this type) has developed anti-Rh-positive antibodies through having previously carried a Rh-positive baby in an earlier pregnancy, her next child may have erythroblastosis. This has no relationship to the blue baby that is born with a congenital heart defect.

The ABO group of the parents has no influence on this or other congenital defects.

Q—A relative has Bales' disease. His doctor says it is incurable. What is the latest information on this?

A—In this disease the victim gets recurrent hemorrhages of the retina and the gelatinous substance in the eyeball. In most victims the cause can't be found but in some it is caused by tuberculosis, rheumatic fever or Buerger's disease. If the cause is found and treated the vision can be saved. If no cause is found the disease gradually leads to blindness but its progress can sometimes be stopped by giving drugs of the cortisone group or by the use of a beam of light to coagulate the weakened capillaries (photocoagulation).

Q—My doctor has prescribed Ismelin. What is it for? Does it cause bladder irritation or diarrhea?

A—Guanethidine (Ismelin) is given to reduce the blood pressure. Its side effects include mild dizziness, weakness, peppiness, diarrhea, nasal stuffiness, dryness of mouth and inability to hold the urine. The appearance of any of these symptoms should prompt your doctor to reduce the dosage or switch to a different drug.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Care of Neck Area Pays Off in Beauty

by Alicia Hart
Beauty Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The neck is more than a stem between the head and the shoulders. It's a part of the anatomy always on view unless a woman covers it with a scarf or turtleneck sweater. Why, then, does this area get such short shrift?

"And how often does a woman consider her neck when she asks for a new hairdo?"

For example, if you have a slender, pretty neck, make the most of it with a hairdo that exposes it in all its loveliness. Try sweeping the hair back and perhaps wearing it high in a chignon occasionally.

For a scrawny neck, select a bouffant hairdo that falls softly below the ears. Too short hair only accentuates this fault.

Massage, too, is important to the neck and throat area and correct exercises can ward off a sagging chin or tighten muscles to pick up the sag that has set in.

The first step in tightening up the chin area is to correct your posture. Stand tall, hold your chin up and don't let your head sag into the shoulders when walking, sitting, reading or eating.

Many women forget to use lotions or cream on their necks but the skin here can become dry, scaly and look wrinkly as a result. Use moisturizing creams each day and massage during the application — upward and outward from the base of the throat to the chin. Another trick is to press your tongue against the roof of your mouth

One of the most neglected complexion areas is the throat. To ward off drying, which encourages wrinkling, smooth on a moisturizer each morning after bathing and again at night before going to bed.

as you massage. An expert in facial exercises says this helps hold the muscles and skin taut and thus the skin massage does not encourage wrinkles by breaking down the tissue.

Another easy trick to improve the contour of the throat and chin is to tilt the head backward and let your jaw jut out. Hold for a few seconds and relax. This is easy to do and takes little effort compared to the benefit it gives.

Golden State Treat

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Stuffed baked potatoes become a super-surprise when fresh mushrooms, green onions, hard-cooked eggs and Parmesan cheese get into the act. It's a real production—good enough to eat.

GOLDEN STATE POTATOES (Serves 6)

- |   |                                      |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 6 large (about 3 pounds) potatoes       | 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper     |
| 1/2 cup butter or margarine             | 1 teaspoon salt                      |
| 1/2 cup sliced green onions             | 2 hard-cooked eggs, sieved or grated |
| 1/2 cup sliced celery                   | 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese |
| 1 lb. fresh mushrooms, coarsely chopped | Chopped fresh parsley                |

Bake potatoes in preheated, very hot oven (450 degrees) 1 hour 15 minutes or until done. Cut a 1/2-inch slice from the top of each potato. Scoop out centers, keeping potato shells intact. Melt butter or margarine in skillet, add onions, celery and mushrooms and saute until tender, about 5 minutes. Add sauteed vegetables, black pepper and salt to potatoes. Toss with fork to mix well; breaking up potatoes, not mashing. Spoon into potato shells; sprinkle well with eggs mixed with Parmesan cheese. Return to hot oven for about 10 minutes or until topping is lightly brown. Garnish potatoes with chopped parsley.

Peru May Break With France

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Legislative Assembly asked the government Monday night to suspend diplomatic relations with France unless the French government drops its plan to explode a hydrogen bomb in the South Pacific this summer.

The motion, which passed unanimously, also asked the government not to allow planes or ships carrying materials for the test blast to stop in Peru.

The French nuclear test is to be held near the Tuamotu Archipelago, 3,700 miles west of Peru.

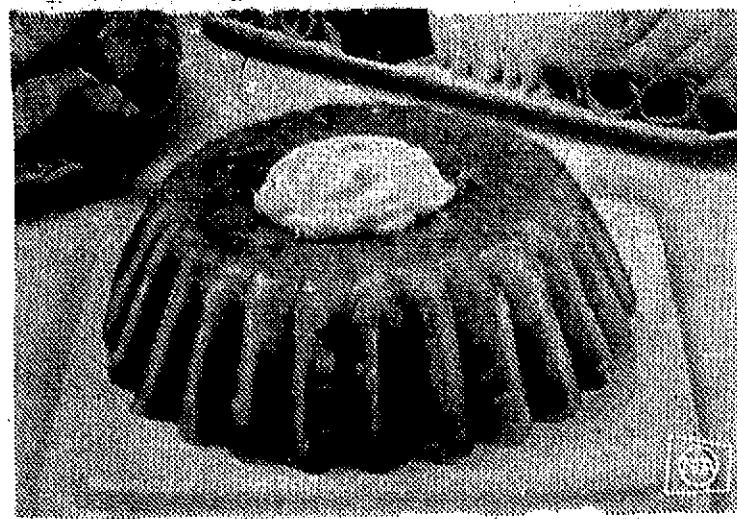

The dill, a plant of the parsley family, is said to be the anise spoken of in the Bible.

Holy Interview

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — He didn't pull up in the Batmobile, he didn't climb up the outside of the building, and he wasn't masked, but you could tell by the red patches of excitement on the cheeks of 10-year-old Bobby King that the good-looking, slight young man who got off the elevator was the Boy Wonder himself, Robin.

In an effort to learn what the fans of Batman, the ABC-TV series (in case you didn't know), really want to know, young Master King was recruited to conduct the interview.

"What kind of shoes do you and Batman wear when you climb up a wall?" he asked 20-year-old Burt Ward, who plays Robin.

"We don't really climb up the walls," Burt explained. "The walls are built at a 45-degree angle and the cameras tilted at a 45-degree angle, and it looks as if we are climbing straight up."

"What do you do in the Batmobile if it rains?" Bobby asked.

"We slide a glass shield forward," Burt said.

Ward came to New York to work out a recording deal, to appear on The Merv Griffin Show (for which his father-in-law, Mort Lindsey, is musical director) and to rush from one interview to another.

"Holy Heart Attack," he was heard to exclaim, as he rushed out of his in-laws' New Jersey home.

"Our hours in Hollywood are unbelievable," Burt said. "We are at the studio from 7:30 a.m. to 9 or 10 at night. The hours are ridiculous and unbearable, but the work is fun. I tell people that we get up in the morning, go to the studio and put on our clothes to put on the world."

Burt, who is doing his first professional acting as Robin, and who is much better looking than he appears in his tights and mask, was raised in "the slums of Beverly Hills," and is really something of a Boy Wonder himself. He is a fine athlete who has pitched several no-hit games in a Los Angeles Municipal League. He planned at first to be a professional golfer. In scholastic tests given at UCLA, he ranked in the top 30 per cent in the country in math and science. He is a speed reader with an authenticated record of reading 30,000 words a minute with 90 per cent retention.

Burt does his own stunts on Batman, he told Bobby, now fallen into silent adoration, and has nearly been killed five times. He has grown so blasé about the dangers he could only remember four of the times.

"On the first day of shooting when we were racing the Batmobile out of the bat cave, we were zooming around a corner and the door on my side flew open. I didn't have a seat belt on, and those tights slip on leather. I just caught my finger on the gear shift in time to keep from being thrown out.

"Then in that show with the Catwoman, I was really strapped only 13 feet over the tigers—and tigers can jump 20 feet. They had meat over my head to see that they were jumping, too.

"One that really scared me was when they had us tied on gigantic wheels which were supposed to go around faster and faster. Well, on a movie set no one can do anyone else's job, and when the time came to turn off the wheels, the guy whose job it was couldn't be found. We kept going faster and faster and I started yelling and I was almost knocked out before they turned the wheels off.

"Every week I worry about the next show, wondering what they will do to me.

"Hey," Burt said to Bobby. "I bet you want to know how Bruce Wayne and Dick Grayson change into Batman and Robin in the time it takes them to slide down the Batpoles. Well, it's easy. The wardrobe man slides down between us and helps."

First U.S. tariff law to protect industries was passed during the administration of President James Madison, in 1816.

WAY-OUT WEDDING—Anita Ekberg is all set for a dip—into matrimonial waters. The actress is costumed for a space wedding in the futuristic film, "Way, Way Out."

FIGURE TALK

The look of a fashion begins with its foundations. Girdles and brassieres are important to the way a dress or suit fits, so they should be selected with even more care than one devotes to purchasing outer apparel.

Here are some of the foundations you'll find to wear under this season's new fashions:

Brassieres lightly contoured with fiberfill, or with their cups molded for smoother curves under soft wools and knits.

Brassieres with straps adjustable to a number of different necklines.

Low-sided brassieres wonderful to wear under sleeveless dresses, and lessening the possibility of an underarm bulge.

Front closing brassieres, both bandeaux and long lines, that some women find easier to put on than the conventional back-fastening bra.

Pantie briefs in both waistline and hip-riding versions for smoothing of youthful figures under sports clothes.

Pantie girdles with dress-maker hemlines for smoother fit, and with lace legbands so as to look ladylike if revealed under a short skirt.

High-rising girdles with the definite control for the midriff that so many fashions (and so many figures) really need.

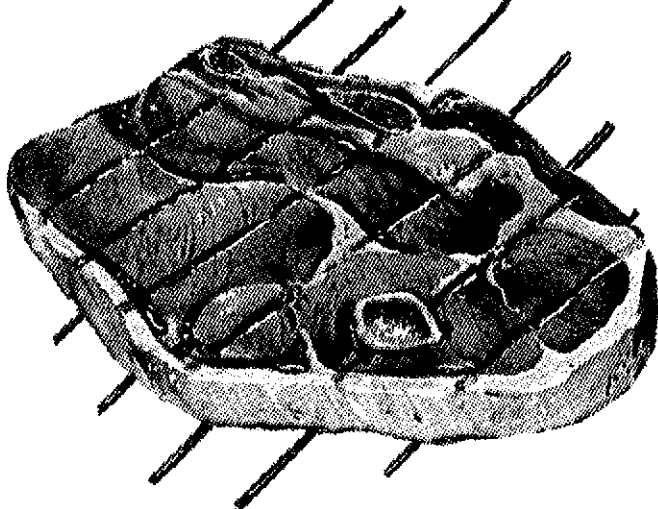

Sculptured corselets and pantie corselets to refine the figure, with lace and elastic, from bosom to thighs.

Many of the new under-pinnings come in pretty pastels, and many are skin-toned as a change from white and black. And the fabrics are generally so sheer and so light it's hard to believe they can really control. Fortunately, they do!

Travelers Call Up a Player

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)— Dick Hughes, 28, a native of Stephens, Ark., was to join the Arkansas Travelers of the Texas League here today. Hughes, who grew up in Shreveport, had a 1-1 pitching record in two starts with Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League this year. He is a right-hander.

A New Janet On the Screen?

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Maybe you thought the old Janet Leigh was good enough, but wait. Be patient. Grip the arms of your chair securely.

"I think we'll see a new Janet Leigh," says Robert Gist, who is directing her in "An American Dream." "I don't think she's ever gone as deep into herself to find a character as she's doing in this picture."

The film may do more than just reveal new dimensions in Janet Leigh as an actress. It conceivably could change her life—at least, her way of thinking.

"The script has me all shook up," Janet said. "We were sitting in Bill Phillips' cubicle in Warner Bros. make-up department, while he did magical things to her eyes."

The script, based on Norman Mailer's corrosive novel, has Janet playing a night club singer. Like everyone else in the story, her character is unsympathetic.

"We're all corrupted," Janet said, as Phillips applied some eyelashes. "And it's gotten me started thinking—I can't seem to stop thinking about it."

Idiom in her career, she says, has this happened. Trying to search for the example of how a previous movie role had altered her way of life, she came up with "Psycho."

"I am not a brazen girl," she said, "but, since 'Psycho,' I cannot take a shower without leaving the shower door open. I must be able to see out."

Janet began talking about her childhood. She's another actress—so many stars are—who was an only child. She says that she used to play make-believe games by herself.

"Once I was caught," she

Janet Leigh

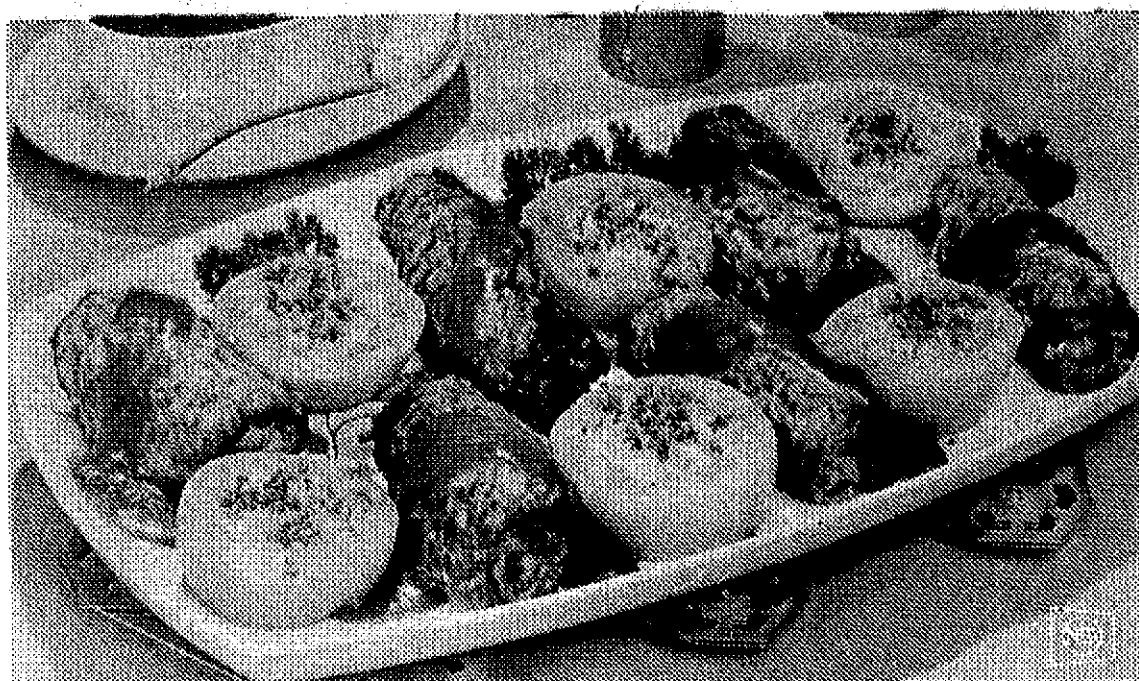

It's her children—"They can have anything I have, if they'll leave the children alone."

Insurance rates for stars, she says, are much higher than for civilians. Whenever there's a minor traffic accident, the party of the second part figures the star is good for a wad.

Every hair and eyelash in place, Janet Leigh was ready to go to work. In her pink slacks, shirt, socks and sneakers, she was pretty as a picture—whether it was the old or new Janet.

On The Rise
The expectation of life in India is on the increase. Between 1951 and 1961 it increased from 32.45 to 42 for males and from 31.66 to 40 for females, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

A Well-Seasoned, Welcome Treat

STEAK ROLLS, PAN-FRIED TOMATOES make a tempting treat.

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Cube steaks, well-seasoned, stuffed and rolled, make a welcome dinner dish. Particularly when pan-fried tomato halves are served with them. And whipped potatoes? What else!

STEAK ROLLS

- (Serves 6)
- 1/4 cup flour
  - 1 teaspoon onion salt
  - 6 cube steaks (about 1 1/2 lbs.)
  - 3 tablespoons water
  - 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
  - 1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard
  - 1/4 teaspoon leaf oregano
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 2 cups fresh bread crumbs

- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1 cup water
- 1 envelope (1/2 oz.) brown gravy mix
- 3 tablespoons sherry

Combine flour and onion salt, sprinkle on both sides of cube steaks. In a mixing bowl, combine the water and onion; let stand a few minutes. Add the yellow mustard, oregano, milk and bread crumbs; toss to mix. Spread a portion of filling on each steak, then roll up, jelly roll fashion. Secure with wooden pick or tie with string. In hot shortening, in skillet, brown steak rolls on all sides. Add water; cover; reduce heat and simmer for 30 to 40 minutes. Remove from heat. Arrange steak rolls on platter. Add 1/4-cup cold water and the gravy mix to liquid in pan. Blend well; place over heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add sherry; heat a minute longer and serve.

PAN-FRIED TOMATOES

- 6 medium tomatoes
- Prepared yellow mustard
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Wash tomatoes; cut out stem ends, then halve crosswise. Spread out surface with mustard. Melt butter in skillet. Place tomato halves, cut side down, in butter. Cook over moderate heat long enough for tomatoes to heat through, but still keep their shape (about 6 or 8 minutes). Serve cut side up. Sprinkle surface with parsley.

Florals Key English Colonial Decor

Floral Acrilan carpet in apricot, green and gold sets color scheme for room reflecting swing to English colonial decorating.

By Aileen Snoddy, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The swing to the English style of decorating brings a nostalgic tear to the eye of an ardent Rudyard Kipling fan.

A living room, for example, with floral carpeting, soft colors, rattan or wicker furniture mixed with heavy formal pieces and traditional accessories is English colonial to its moldings. Add a few chintzes and friends of the Empire might be inspired to write a couplet or two.

Furniture and carpet manufacturers are putting on a good show with English.

Floral carpeting, a basic in traditional English room design, abounds throughout the market. However, huge cabbage roses have been held to a minimum. Instead the bright, gay florals this season generally are small in scale with the tones soft but not wishy-washy. Do not confuse them with the gigantic flowers used by contemporary rug designers.

Capitalizing on the restraint in color, for example, is the use of a friendship bouquet floral (by Alexander Smith) in apricot, green and gold.

An interior designer here used the floral in an Acrilan carpet for a quiet study room. The apricot in the carpet was repeated in the wall color. The green was re-emphasized in a sofa and in a striped seat cushion on a wicker chair. Bold pillows on a carpeted window seat filled out the color scheme.

Handsome bookcases from a new collection (by Thomasville) are trimmed in simulated bamboo. These frame a window which is a thought for anyone facing the problem of a single window that breaks up a wall.

The decorator further picked up the motif in a rat-

Versatile Meat Mixture May Be Used Many Ways

A tasty meat mixture that can be shaped and cooked as you please, that's this recipe for Versatile Meat Loaf!

Bake it in a ring and serve with creamed vegetables in the center or tuck it into muffin cups to bake as individual servings, says meat expert, Reba Staggs.

These are but two ways it can be prepared. Make individual loaves to wrap in bacon or make a single large one. Like patties? It makes twelve 1-inch thick patties.

Salt, pepper and onion are classic in seasoning a meat loaf mixture, but this one also uses whole wheat bread crumbs, grated carrots and Worcestershire sauce.

One and one-half pounds of ground beef and a 1/2 pound ground pork form the basis of this very flexible recipe. If the retailer grinds the meat to your order, he may combine the two.

Versatile Meat Loaf—Shaped to Please

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 pound ground pork
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup grated carrots
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 1/2 cups soft whole wheat bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape into individual loaves or pack well into desired-shaped pans. This recipe will yield twelve meat patties, using 2 1/2-inch muffin pans; twelve 1-inch thick patties; 2 1/2-inches in diameter; six loaves; 3 1/4 x 3 x 1 1/4 inches; a 1 1/4-quart ring or a 9 x 5-inch loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) the following lengths of time: muffins, patties or individual loaves, 25 to 30 minutes; ring, 40 minutes; and 9 x 5-inch loaf, 1 hour. Shaped individual loaves may be wrapped in bacon, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

AYE AYE EYA—Drawing a bead on stardom, she hopes, is newcomer from Finland—Eya. That's all, just Eya. She'll appear in an American thriller after gaining something of a name for herself in Paris as "the most beautiful spy in France."
